The paper examines the theoretical and practical aspects of using confidential cooperation in criminal proceedings, as well as the essence of confidential cooperation under current legislation. It analyses the use of confidential cooperation in criminal proceedings in accordance with international standards, describes the participants of confidential cooperation, and determines the peculiarities of obtaining and using evidence as a result of confidential cooperation. Recommendations are provided for improving legislation on criminal procedure regarding the use of confidential cooperation in criminal proceedings.

The publication is intended for researchers, educators of higher education institutions, law enforcement officers, attorneys and students.
